

BALCO reaches 2,50,000 through corona prevention

STAFF REPORTER ■ BHOPAL

India's iconic aluminium producing company BALCO, engaging with various stakeholders, has reached over 2,50,000 people through its Covid-19 prevention and safety measures.

Vedanta BALCO is taking extensive steps to ensure that the community, associate partners, employees, other stakeholders and all their families are equipped and sensitised to respond to COVID-19.

The team has made generous contributions to the community by distributing PPE kits, sanitisers, food, as well as conducting sanitisation drives in the district. While the BALCO plant is running operations with minimum workforce and limited resources, adhering to all the COVID-19 guidelines issued by the central and state authorities, the organisation has marshalled all its resources to undertake preventive measures for its employees, business associates and community at large in, around and far beyond its plant area.

BALCO has extensively supported the local communities with safety kits, dry ration as well as cooked food for the needy, fumigation and sanitisation of public places, supporting local livelihoods, supporting local hospitals with critical medical gear and equipment and much more.

There has been much appreciation and acknowledgment from key policy makers and Government officials on BALCO's rigorous efforts. The Chief Minister of Chhattisgarh, Bhupesh Baghel, has appreciated BALCO's timely and generous support to the state for COVID preparedness. Abhijit Pati, CEO & Director, BALCO expressed his gratitude to the CM and assured him that BALCO stands firmly with the state administration in the fight against COVID-19 as they monitor the situation closely and remain committed to extend all help possible.
